SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION AND SUPPLEMENTAL EXHIBITS C AND D-ADDENDA TO MY AMENDED SUPPLEMENTAL RESPONSE, DECLARATION, EXHIBIT, AND REQUEST FOR RELIEF, D.R. 1058

I, Immanuel Herrmann, pro se Celsius creditor, hereby submit the following supplemental declaration and supplemental Exhibits ("Exhibit C" and "Exhibit D") to my Amended Supplemental Response, Declaration, Exhibit, and Request for Relief (D.R. 1058.) I respectfully state as follows:

The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, are: Celsius Network LLC (2148); Celsius KeyFi LLC (4414); Celsius Lending LLC (8417); Celsius Mining LLC (1387); Celsius Network Inc. (1219); Celsius Network Limited (8554); Celsius Networks Lending LLC (3390); and Celsius US Holding LLC (7956). The location of Debtor Celsius Network LLC's principal place of business and the Debtors' service address in these chapter 11 cases is 121 River Street, PH05, Hoboken, New Jersey 07030.

SUPPLEMENTAL DECLARATION OF IMMANUEL HERRMANN

I, Immanuel Herrmann, hereby declare as follows under penalty of perjury that the following is true and correct to the best of my knowledge, information, and belief:

The author of the tweet, @erikanswerman, has informed me that "I misspoke which is why I removed the post. Madoffshitsky was not at Consensus. However, there were signs for months that Celsius was in trouble. And people were sending me screenshots of how warned down and ragged he looked leading up to the freeze during his AMAs." [Exhibit D]

Additionally, @FrancieJones has informed me that: "yeah there's definitely some substance to the story but you'd have to ask people who were there/they tell us. Tal @Theloansqueen was at Consensus2022. She managed to get all her coins off the app except CEL. See @sileclercq's data with Celsius employees." [Exhibit D]

While I do not plan to amend the Amended Declaration of Immanuel Herrmann, D.R. 1058 Exhibit A, dated 10/13/22–because it remains accurate—I believe that adding this additional declaration provides additional color to the court and other parties in interest who may be looking into these matters.

I have attached 2 Exhibits to this filing. Exhibit C, which was inadvertently left off D.R. 1058—but is referenced in D.R. 1058—and Exhibit D, which is a true and correct copy of my follow-up Twitter correspondence on this matter.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on October 17, 2022, at Silver Spring, Maryland.

Former CEO of Bankrupt Crypto Lender Celsius Cashes Out $960K in CEL, USDC, Data Shows

Data show that Alex Mashinsky, who resigned as Celsius' CEO on Sept. 27, continues to move crypto out of wallets while withdrawals are suspended for customers.

Almost $1 million in CEL and USDC has been sent to UniSwap and MetaMask since the beginning of October from wallets belonging to former Celsius Network CEO Alex Mashinsky, according to data compiled by Nansen.

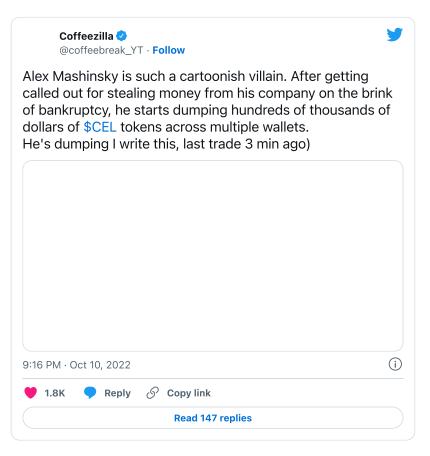

On-chain data from analytics platform Nansen identifies wallets belonging to Mashinsky showing a steady stream of Celsius' CEL token and Circle's USDC stablecoin leaving his six wallets over the last month.

Coffezilla, a blockchain sleuth that exposes crypto seams on YouTube, claims to have spotted another wallet controlled by Mashinsky that has moved approximately $225,376 in CEL and USDC during the last month. Ownership of this wallet has not been confirmed by Nansen, however on-chain data shows that it has been funded by a confirmed Mashinsky wallet.

This is in addition to the $28,242 moved by Mashinsky in August over the course of a few days, as CoinDesk has previously reported, and the nearly $27 million that was withdrawn by executives in two tranches before the firm declared bankruptcy.

Mashinsky did not respond to a request for comment by CoinDesk by press time.

According to on-chain data, Mashinsky's collection of wallets still contains $197,301 worth of crypto, primarily comprised of CEL and USDC.

Exposed: Celsius founder is still dumping hundreds of thousands of dollars in CEL across wallets

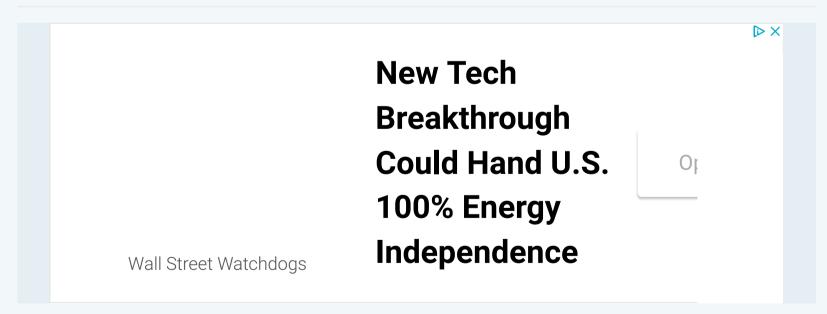

Ana Nicenko

After the news broke that senior executives of cryptocurrency lending firm Celsius had cashed out between $17 and $23 million worth of crypto from custody accounts right before suspending client withdrawals and filing for bankruptcy, its ex-CEO seems to be dumping his CEL tokens.

Indeed, Mashinsky, who stepped down from the position of Celsius' CEO on September 27, has been keeping himself busy by dumping his Celsius (CEL) tokens across multiple crypto wallets, YouTube investigator Coffeezilla tweeted on October 11.

CEL dumping continues

According to the popular YouTuber, who referred to Mashinsky as a "cartoonish villain," there is another wallet belonging to Mashinsky that has moved about $225,376 in CEL and USDC over the past month. As he stated:

99

"After getting called out for stealing money from his company on the brink of bankruptcy, he starts dumping hundreds of thousands of dollars of CEL tokens across multiple wallets."

On top of that, Coffeezilla noted that Mashinsky was still dumping the tokens across wallets at the time when he was writing his tweet – "last trade 3 min ago."

Stephen Findeisen, a.k.a. Coffeezilla is known for his investigations of online scams, including false marketing of crypto brokerage firm Voyager Digital, TRON DAO Reserve's USDD stablecoin he suggested could be a Ponzi scheme, claims of insider trading at Coinbase, as well as SafeMoon exmarketing chief's pump and dump scheme.

Celsius in trouble with the law

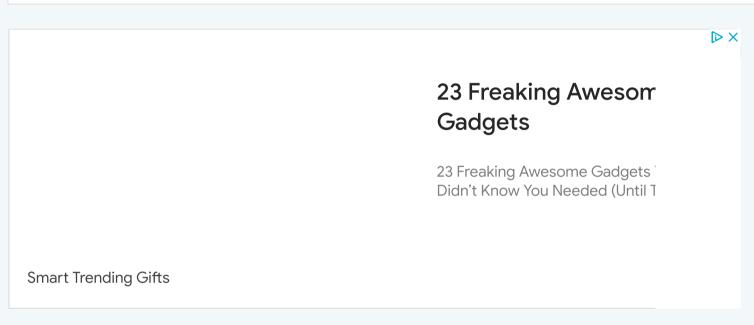

Meanwhile, Mashinsky and former chief security officer at Celsius Daniel Leon allegedly removed at least $17 million in Bitcoin (BTC), Ethereum (ETH), USD Coin, and Celsius tokens from custody

At the same time, court documents have uncovered that Kristine Mashinsky, the wife of the former Celsius CEO, herself might have participated in the withdrawals, cashing out more than $2 million in the CEL token on May 31, as Finbold reported.

Earlier in September, the Vermont Department of Financial Regulation submitted a public court filing in which it accused Celsius of hiding its financial woes from its investors and "engaged in the improper manipulation of the price" of its tokens to improve its balance sheet.
